Decision nears on court

Sept. 17 may be the "fish or cut bait" date for the five communities engaged in informal negotiations on a means to build a new 34th District Court building.

The meeting date has been set aside by administrative representatives of Belleville, Romulus and the townships of Huron, Sumpter and Van Buren to report back on each community's legislative body's opinions on a plan to share the costs of a new court building.

Van Buren Township Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer, the head of a special committee established to find a potential site for the new court building, said the meeting is important "since we've been operating without any real knowledge of what the township and city commissions think of the idea of funding the construction of a new court."

"It's a problem which has to be dealt with and that's the reason the administrative officials have met to begin planning," Gollwitzer added. "But there will be a time when each community will have to approve some form of plan, and we should know whether each community is willing to at least examine one."

The administrative officials — mayors and supervisors from the cities and townships involved — agreed to poll their councils and township boards prior to the Sept. 16 session at the 34th District Court.

The legislative bodies officially will be informed that plans are underway to share the fine funds collected by the court to help finance construction of a new building on a site near the center of the 34th District.

"It looks like the fines will have to go to court no matter what anyone says about it," Gollwitzer said. "But it's whether the individual communities want a say in what is done which is up in the air."

"I personally don't think it would be fair to taxpayers in any one township or city if the court were moved off to some corner of the 34th District where service would be difficult to obtain.

"That's why we're talking about a new building in a central location."

The need for a new court building became acute when the existing structure on Eureka Road near Middle Belt Road in Romulus was slated for condemnation by the Wayne County Road Commission to make way for a new airport runway at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Until the existing building became endangered by the runway, building costs were minimal.

But now "the communities should examine the costs and work out some details on meeting them," according to Gollwitzer.

"It was easy for all involved in the past because the communities could get off inexpensively with a building donated to the court by Romulus," he continued. "But now, there aren't any more buildings which can be donated at a minimal cost to the court operation."

Gollwitzer indicated that he would like to see his board back a plan to oversee part of the operation of the court as a check against being stuck with too high a bill for its operations.

"There are many ways to go, but the biggest fear for us would be that an expensive building would be constructed which would require some subsidization over the regular fine collection amounts," Gollwitzer said. "I'd like to see a modest, though functional, building constructed in a central location on land which we could obtain at minimal cost, if any cost at all."

At present, the administrators involved in the court search are eyeing a piece of property owned by the Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA) along Huron River Drive at the Huron River crossing in Van Buren Township.

The search committee has been asked to make a formal appeal to the HCMA Board of Directors for the land to begin action on a possible trade to the court site.

New airport fight may be brewing

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Romulus city and school officials appear to be heading toward another court battle with the Wayne County Road Commission (WCRC) over Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus.

Jerrold Fadem, the attorney who won a delay in constructing the airport's massive northeast to southwest runway in Federal District Court earlier this year, will be in the city for two meetings Sept.

4 to discuss the possibility of filing a damage suit for airport operations similar to a suit he won in Los Angeles, Calif.

Mayor Terry L. Troutt said Fadem will meet with city and school officials in the afternoon, and will meet with interested citizens at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 4 in the Romulus High School Auditorium to discuss the ramifications of a possible damage suit for individuals who suffer nuisances due to airport operations.

"The suit will encompass not only land values decreasing due to the absorption of property by the airport, but also damages for such things as noise and pollution, if filed," Troutt said. The city alone has lost more than $8.5 million in roads, sewer and water lines and taxable land due to airport expansion.

"I expect to fight for some of that money back, and would expect homeowners who cannot receive federally-backed mortgages on their homes because of noise standards to fight for some relief as well."

Not only Romulus officials, but also those of Taylor, Huron Township and Van Buren townships and Dearborn Heights will be asked to join in on discussions of a possible suit.

Troutt visualizes a class action lawsuit against the airport, and the WCRC the airport's operators.

While Troutt believes a successful suit would result in some restrictions on the use of the airport, he said he didn't visualize any potential danger to passengers or residents.

"There are different ways to fly over a community to do away with the problems that flights cause," Troutt said. "It's when the flight doesn't consider the wellbeing of the residents underneath its path that causes problems."

"I'm not hoping for any change in the status of the airport which would make it more dangerous to fly out of it, but I'm looking for something which can make it better for Romulus residents who live near it better able to bear the problems."

Candidates ponder use of airport

EDITOR'S NOTE: In our effort to provide the best possible coverage of the city elections, The Romulus Roman has introduced an issue forum. In next week's, the final forum prior to the election, all candidates will be polled for their opinions. THE QUESTION FOR ALL CANDIDATES WAS MADE AVAILABLE AT NOON TODAY. Answers to the questions must be returned in writing by noon Monday. Questions on the issues forum should be directed to Editor Lucy Wiesend.

Taxing Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus may be one way to make the airport "less objectional" in the opinion of two candidates seeking the primary nod for mayor in Romulus Sept. 8 election.

Both incumbent Mayor Terry L. Troutt and challenger Clayton W. Meldrum believe adding a tax burden to the airport could help alleviate some of Romulus' financial burdens, but they disagree on the means of taxation.

Meldrum proposed levying a "departure tax" on aircraft leaving the airport, saying: "It would do away with a need to increase taxes while adding the possibility of lowering them."

Troutt advocated levying taxes on now exempt concessions and enlisting the aid of the airport's operators — the Wayne County Road Commission (WCRC) — in developing industrial and commercial land near it as a means to improve its tax bearing status in the city.

Meldrum justified his plan, saying that "every other major airport in the nation has a departure tax on planes leaving the ground" and suggested that added taxes garnered by his plan could be used to bolster services.

Troutt is hoping the court order against airport expansion, won in Federal District Court earlier this year, "will result in meaningful negotiations between the WCRC and Romulus."

In addition, he claims the airport departure tax proposed by Meldrum has been declared illegal unless the operating authority of the airport is the city in which the airport lies.

The two candidates offered their opinions on the use of the airport in response to The Romulus Roman's "issues forum" question for this week. The question, offered to all four candidates seeking nomination to office in September, was: "Detroit Metropolitan Airport has been described as a 'blessing' and a 'harm' to Romulus by a former elected official. Lawsuits have been established to correct some of the 'harm' caused, but what can be done to enhance the 'blessing' to the city of having the largest airport in Michigan within Romulus' boundaries?"

Challenger James C. Stewart picked up a copy of the question, but did not answer. The other challenger, Glenn Free, did not pick up a question.

Mayor disclaims rec firing

Reports that Romulus' recreation director has been fired for political activity against the incumbent mayor are untrue.

Mayor Terry L. Troutt said he has no intention of firing Recreation Director Marie DeBuysscher for working on the campaign of his political opponent, James C. Stewart.

Mrs. DeBuysscher, who describes herself as a "long-time friend" of Stewart claimed she had been fired when contacted by The Romulus Roman Monday. However, she admitted she had no official notice of her termination from Troutt other than a verbal indication that she was fired Friday.

Troutt denied that he had told the recreation director she would be fired for political activity.

"It's within any person's right to work for whomever they choose in a democratic society," he said. "But I will say it should be on Mrs. DeBuysscher's conscience if she's cheating the taxpayers out of their service from the Recreation Department by campaigning."

"It didn't do any service to the taxpayers for her to issue the

Is summer over?

As the days slowly tick away to next week when it will be back to school for Romulus youngsters, one tot voiced his disapproval over the idea during a visit to the park. The Romulus Roman Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko captured the disgruntled tyke in his mad dash through a cement tunnel. His only response was "Is summer over?"

statement that she was fired when it was untrue."

Mrs. DeBuysscher said she had not been involved in any political campaigning other than having her name placed on an endorsement for passage of a recreation bond issue early in August until about two weeks ago.

"I had given Terry (Troutt) a verbal commitment to campaign for him in May, but changed my mind," she said. "I had decided to remain neutral until I was told I was fired, and then I decided to go all out for Stewart."

Rumors of Mrs. DeBuysscher's firing had been circulating in the community for about two weeks, until they appeared to be true Monday when she did not report for work.

But according to Troutt, the recreation director had taken a week off of her job, starting Monday, to use up "accumulated time" she had earned for working overtime during the past year.

Mrs. DeBuysscher said she has ordered a Stewart bumper sticker for her car, and asked that a Stewart campaign sign be erected in her front yard.

"I was going to stay out of it," she said. "I was scared to lose my job in May, but now it doesn't matter if I can't have the friends I want because I work for the city."

Troutt said he would not fire Mrs. DeBuysscher because "she has done a good enough job in the Recreation Department for two years, and should be judged on that."

"But maybe she sees some handwriting on the wall, because there was a proposal by the recreation commission to bring in a recreation director who has earned a college degree in the subject," he added.

fashions whisks for beating liquids in the cooking process.

It's a ritual performed many times each day for wide-eyed youngsters, admiring adults and those caught up in nostalgia, but for Belleville resident Robert Kaiser, it's all part of the day's work.

The Martinsville Road resident is among a group of skilled craftsmen who display their talents of yesteryear in a special crafts center, opened at Greenfield Village.

The dozen craft masters produce such items as belts, weaved articles, pewter candlesticks, barrels and kegs and spices each day to help visitors to the Dearborn center recapture the spirit of years gone by.

In a 2-square block near the Village Green, craftsmen introduce visitors to the long-forgotten ways Americans made their livings and provide the basic necessities of life for themselves and their community before the industrial revolution.

While Kaiser manufactures brooms and whisks, nearby a skilled master weaves upon a large loom, located in the Gardner House, a typical midwestern home of an 1832 British immigrant.

At the typical 19th century bakery another craftsman is preparing whole wheat bread with an aroma sure to attract people from the farthest corner of the village. At the tintype studio, which is equipped with the original 1850 4-lens camera and wet-plate negatives, visitors can have their tour of the village captured in tintype photography.

At Currier Shoe Shop, a small business transported from the Merrimack Valley of Newton, N.H., to the village and is from the 1880s, leatherwork is being demonstrated, while the Kingston Cooper Shop of the 1785 vintage, the oldest crafts shop in the village, coopers — the art of making barrels — is the subject.

Kaiser's neighbors also include the Village Blacksmith Shop, which actually is in use and located under the "spreading chestnut tree," the Grimm Jewelry Store where Henry Ford bought watch parts in the 1880s and which is the center for silversmithing, and the typical 19th century Carriage Shed where the tinsmith, pewterer and potter are plying their trades.

The final stop in the crafts center is Dr. Howard's office, built in 1839 in Marshall, Mich. Its poignant aromas tell you it's where the village craftsmen are preparing herbs.

Necessarily, the majority of these crafts that have survived through to today, originally were done in the homes of the individually craftsmen, a village spokesman said. Traditionally, their activities were household industries at a time when self-sufficiency was a way of life.

The 11 buildings individual are not separated from the remainder of the village and the products produced by the craftsmen are available at the village's Plymouth House.

For further information of the village and its related Henry Ford Museum, contact the complex at 271-1620.

First black woman official

Miss Carter named urban renewal director

Romulus has its first black woman department head. Mayor Terry L. Troutt has named Mary Carter acting urban renewal director for the city.

Miss Carter, 38, will replace outgoing Urban Renewal Director George Wilhelmi, 48, when he leaves the job Aug. 31.

"I think Miss Carter is a very responsible and dedicated public servant," Troutt said in making the announcement of the appointment. "She is more than qualified to handle the urban renewal job."

In her new position, Miss Carter will oversee the end of the city's first major urban renewal program — a project which was in the planning since 1967, and underway and funded since 1971.

"I'm please and happy with the appointment," Miss Carter said. "I've gone through school in Romulus and have many friends in the community."

"I've enjoyed the work in urban renewal, and relish the opportunity to continue in the program."

In leaving, Wilhelmi becomes the second department head within two weeks to resign. He was preceded by Harold Reiner, assessment director for the city who took a job in Nebraska.

Wilhelmi said that his reasons for leaving were "because the urban renewal program was ending, and I wanted to get into a former line of work — engineering."

He has been hired by Romulus' civil engineering firm Morris Levine Associates and primarily will supervise the construction of a water and sewer program in Van Buren Township for the firm.

Miss Carter is the first black city employee in Romulus, having been hired in late 1969. She has worked in the Water Department, Building Department and was one of the first employees hired for the Urban Renewal Program.

"She literally has worked her way up the ranks," Troutt said. "I'm proud to appoint her."

Wilhelmi said he recommended Miss Carter for the job when he submitted his resignation.

"She has been with the program since its inception, and is the local choice to replace me," Wilhelmi said. "One of the reasons I can leave is because the program is in good hands."

Wilhelmi estimates that the Urban Renewal Program is 85 percent complete.

Miss Carter has until Jan. 1 to tie up the loose ends in the program before funding runs out.

But she plans to take another job with the city, if offered.

"I'm still a city employee," she said. "Once urban renewal ends, the work won't stop."

Taxing enforcement could equalize bills

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

A Michigan state representative believes he may have found a means to enforce state laws on property assessments to make tax payments on property values more equitable throughout Michigan.

State Rep. Roy Smith (R-52nd District) is lobbying for support in State Sen. John Bowman's Senate Taxation Committee for a bill which would require communities to file separate state equalization factors on each class of land in assessments to insure that each assessment in the city reaches the 50 percent level dictated by the state.

The bill already has passed the State House.

Under present state law, land and buildings in a property class are assessed at a level determined by a local assessor, and a state equalization factor is applied across the board to all property classes, theoretically to bring assessments to the 50 percent level.

Smith contends that if certain classes of property are underassessed grossly, or are neglected by a local assessor for a long period of time, then assessments will be out of phase.

"It's unfair, since both should be paying taxes based on 50 percent of their value," Smith said. "But if assessments are neglected, the ratio can change drastically."

"Technically, right now, the method of assessment is illegal if it's away from the 50 percent level. I would urge any taxpayer not paying on only 50 percent of property value to appeal to the state for relief."

At present, a state equalization factor — a number designated by the state to compensate for inflation in property value costs during the year — is applied to all assessments across the board.

Under the Smith plan, separate factor would be applied in each class of property to bring them to the 50 percent value.

"It will mean more taxes in different classes of property, depending on the assessments," Smith said. "At the same time, some classes will have taxes reduced."

"But the state law requires assessment at a 50 percent level, and that's what it should be."

"Uniformity is the key. The law stipulates a level, and if it's adhered to, residents wouldn't complain."

Assessment bill could hike taxes

If changes were made in the state law on local assessments, as suggested by an Ypsilanti state representative, several area communities could be hard hit.

Residents in Belleville, Romulus and Huron Township could see some of their property taxes increase under State Rep. Roy C. Smith's plan to apply separate favors to each property in a community.

In Belleville, residences pay taxes on only 44 percent of their value, commercial interests pay taxes on 58 percent of their value and industries pay taxes on 60 percent of their value.

The Smith plan would require a 60-cent per mill increase in taxes on every $10,000 in property value for residences while commercial taxes would be reduced by 80 cents per mill for every $10,000 in value and industrial taxes would be reduced by $1 per mill for every $10,000 in value.

In Romulus, the change would be more drastic.

Residences and agricultural interests pay taxes on only 41 percent of property value, while commercial interests pay taxes on 50 percent of their value and industry pays taxes on 55 percent of its value.

Home and agricultural taxes would be raised 90 cents per mill for every $10,000 in valuation under the Smith plan, while commercial taxes would remain essentially the same and industrial taxes would be reduced by 50 cents per mill for every $10,000 in assessed valuation.

Huron Township agricultural and residential landowners pay taxes on 47 percent of their property values, while commercial taxpayers pay on 67 percent of their property values and industry on 72 percent of its property value.

Residences and farms would see taxes rise 30 cents per mill for every $10,000 in property values, while commercial taxpayers would see taxes drop $1.70 per mill and industrial taxpayers would see taxes drop $2.20 per mill.

In Van Buren Township, the change wouldn't be too drastic.

Van Buren homeowners now pay taxes on 48 percent of their property value, while agricultural interests pay taxes on 43 percent of their value and both commercial and industrial properties pay

Voters indifferent

Like everyone else, it is hard for elected public officials to face the fact that many of them are not particularly well loved.

For this reason the shrinking voter turnouts in recent national elections worry politicians.

They suspect the indifference of the voters may have something to do with their own image, but in typical politician fashion some of them have proposed a solution to the problem that points in another direction altogether.

Many voters stay away from the polls, they say, because they have not spent enough time or effort to register. So the answer must be the enactment of legislation to make registration easy through a postcard system, and, presto, the polls will be crowded on election day.

Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Mich.) doesn't agree.

"This legislation is a classic case of the proposed cure being even worse than the disease," he said. "It has been rejected by previous congresses, but like a bad dream this bill keeps returning to haunt the halls of our legislative body."

Broomfield raised these specific objections: The system would require the establishment of another thick layer of government bureaucracy at an estimated annual cost of $100 million to $300 million.

It would offer too much temptation to local political bosses. These gents, if they knew their business at all, soon would have many of the names in the town's cemeteries on the voter rolls.

"In these post Watergate days it is inconceivable that Congress would even be considering a bill that could return us to turn-of-the-century ward politics at its worse," Broomfield said.

And finally, those cities and states already using postcard registration have found that usually about one-third of the cards received are illegible or incomplete, or both.

Those favoring the system would like to see registration cards delivered to every household in the United States in a period extending between 120 to 60 days before the close of registration. All a voter would have to do would be to fill out the card and mail it to local registration officials.

But there are indications that even such an expensive massive program would fail to achieve its intended goal.

Bond vote 'upsetting'

To the editor: I have lived in Romulus now for 10 years, and after reading that the two bond issues of last week had been defeated, I must admit I have given up all hope for the future of the city.

Several years ago, while participating in a Memorial Day Parade in our city, I was disappointed in the fact that the entire viewing audience of citizens consisted of about 15 families.

At that time, I stated to my husband that Romulus was a city of old people, and that there was nothing in this city for us or our children. Today, I am convinced more than ever that I was right.

The only opinion I have changed, is the fact that I meant "old" chronologically. Now I mean "old" in the ambition and future dreams of its citizens.

At the time of my original statement, I felt the problems of Romulus were the result of a weak government, especially its head. Now I realize it is not the government's fault, it's the peoples.

Romulus has nothing to offer anyone of any generation, unless you want to read a book in its fantastic library, or use the airport to fly out!!

The area of greatest neglect is with facilities for the high school kids and young adults and parents. We have no theaters, no recreation facilities, no shopping centers, only a few restaurants where a boy can take his date for a pizza or whatever.

For all of these things, we must go to other cities, and give them our money. So now, when we have a chance to bring something into our community for both work and play, we turn it down. Surely, our taxes would have gone up, but look what the families of this community would have gained.

The recession has hurt my family as much as any, but we must think of the future in terms of opportunities for our children plus something to bring life to the unconcerned individuals of this community. It's all a matter of priorities, and obviously the priorities of the residents of Romulus lie solely in their pocketbooks. Let us hope that future generations are not so shortsighted.

Family is thankful

To the editor: It is with much gratitude that we thank all who have helped us during our time of need recently in the loss of ours and our neighbors homes in the huge gas explosion in our neighborhood.

A heartfelt thank you to all who came to our aid.

The rescue units and the Red Cross were a blessing to us all. The police and fire departments did an excellent job and we are very grateful for all they did in trying to save our home and in saving our lives.

Thank you also to the City of Romulus for its help in cleaning up after the fire.

A special thank you to all of our wonderful friends, relatives and neighbors who have been a constant aid to us during all of this. It is in times like these that we especially appreciate one another.

God bless you all.

Flap surrounds worker 'gag'

By BOB BERG
Panax Lansing Bureau Chief

There are several ways to look at the flap involving whether or not the State Commerce Department tried to "gag" all its employees.

It all began with a 2-page memo from department director Richard Helmbrecht which said, in effect, all publicity should be routed through his office, whether it involved a press release, printing of a booklet or brochure or issuing of an official order.

The Commerce Department is a big one, composed of such diverse agencies as the Cemetery Commission, the Corporation and Securities Bureau, the Financial Institutions Bureau, the Insurance Bureau, the Liquor Control Commission, the Office of Economic Expansion, the Public Service Commission (PSC) and the Tourist Council.

It always has been an unwieldy department, made hard to coordinate by the autonomous nature of each regulatory part of it and the reluctance of any bureaucratic entity to submit to the authority of another.

With that as background, Helmbrecht issued the memo. It was prompted by excessive spending on the part of a couple of the divisions on publications and by the tendency of some divisions to issue press releases delineating a policy without bothering to let him know what was going on, he said.

The memo said, in effect, send everything through my office for approval.

Enter William Ralls, a member of the PSC for nearly four years who has been on the short end of quite a few 2-1 votes in commission activities. Ralls also has had a running battle with Commission Chairman William Rosenberg, most of which he has lost by 2-1 votes. He has felt Rosenberg was high handed and has felt he was being walled off in an attempt to make him as ineffectual as possible.

Ralls saw the memo as an attempt to silence him and reacted by holding a news conference. He opened with an emotional statement saying "a bureaucrat wants to gag me."

He did this without checking with Helmbrecht or any of Helmbrecht's assistants to see if the memo meant Ralls was supposed to shut up unless approved by Helmbrecht. In truth, there is no way Helmbrecht could order Ralls to stop talking or stop criticizing the commission. He has no authority over what Ralls says.

Helmbrecht put out a quick clarification of the memo saying it "is not intended to prevent communication among employees of the department and the Legislature, the press or the public."

He hadn't even thought about Ralls when he drew it up.

Ralls said Helmbrecht was "backing down," not clarifying. Then he backed down a little himself, saying he didn't think it was directed at him specifically after his statement had opened by pointing out his dissenting role and saying "a bureaucrat wants to gag me."

It appeared to be a classic case of two people looking at the same situation from two different perspectives and drawing wholly different impressions. That isn't a new phenomenon. Plato talked about it a few thousand years ago in his allegory of the caves.

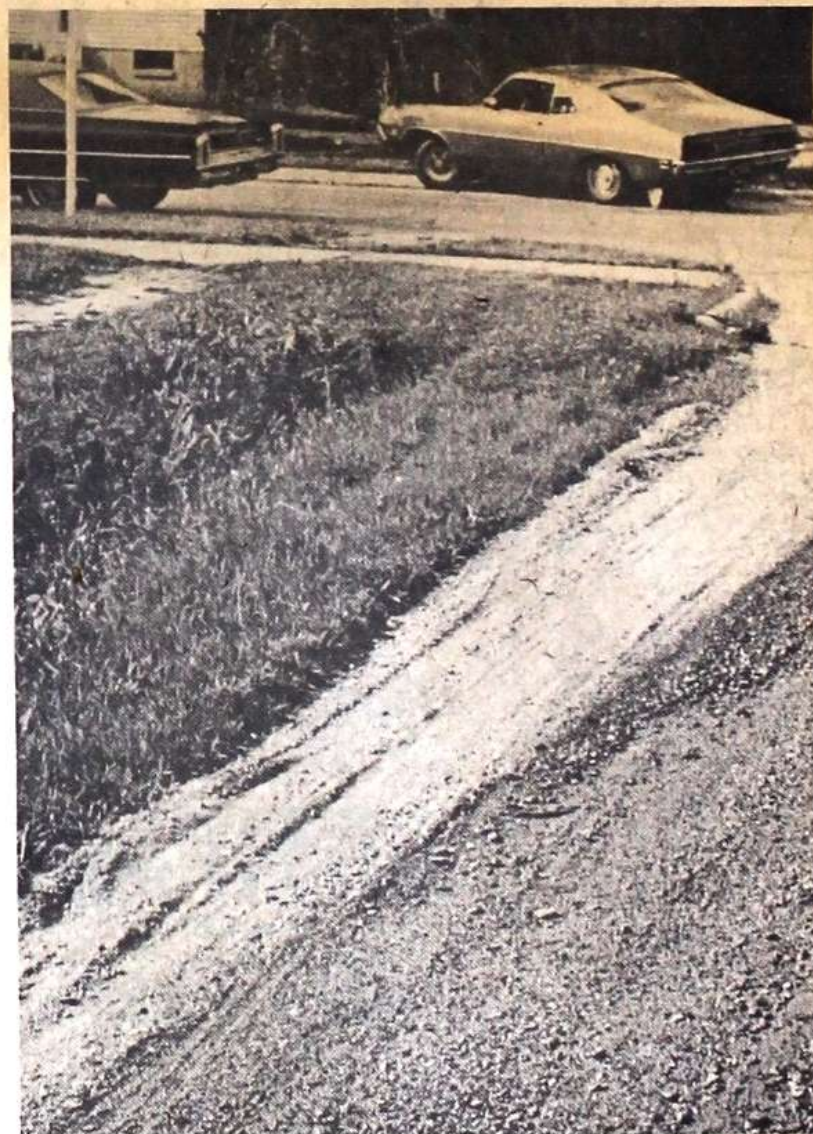

There was some suggestion that this was a publicity ploy on Ralls' part, since he is politically ambitious and few causes are less dangerous than free speech. But his anger appeared to be real and his performance indicates a conscientious approach to the job that doesn't allow for out-and-out publicity stunts.

Still, he might have saved a lot of his energy by making a phone call to Helmbrecht before working up an anger and holding a press conference.

Warning necessary

After seeing the results of an accident on Venoy Road in Westland, our photographer took these pictures and urged us to publish them with a warning to other drivers. The accident occurred because the driver did not realize that the chemical agents just sprayed on the road shoulder were slippery. The motorist lost control of the car and ended up on the sidewalk across the street. To test the slipperiness, Enterprise-Roman Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko drove across the shoulder. He reports: "My own tires just turned like I was on ice when I drove over the chemicals just sprayed against dust on the road shoulder." Let this be a warning to all motorists. Take care when driving on unpaved shoulder of roads in the area. They may be slippery, and you may end up like the above motorist — with a damaged vehicle.

The 76-part series includes topics which contributed to the shaping and direction of the State of Michigan. The impact which this series is certain to have will provide a legacy for future generations of readers as they look back on what we did to celebrate the Bicentennial in Michigan, according to the Michigan Revolution Bicentennial Commission. The series is being prepared by the commission.

DETROIT (MARCH 16, 1847) — Land in Lansing Township has been designated as the site of the new State Capitol.

A bill signed today by Gov. William Greenley ended months of wrangling over the new location.

Sources close to the situation contend that Lansing was suggested as a joke. This was denied by Enos Goodrich of Genesee County, one of the supporters of the Lansing decision.

"We saw that the House was deadlocked on a choice of sites for the State Capitol. Several towns had been mentioned. Among these were Detroit, Lyons, Charlotte, Eaton Rapids, Jackson, Marshall and many others...we hoped to end the deadlock," he said.

The governor's signature makes the new Capitol, to be called "Michigan" or "The City of Michigan" a reality.

James Seymour of Genesee County offered the property for the Capitol grounds free to the state. It is said that this was instrumental in Lansing Township being selected.

Goodrich agreed. "We furnished maps to all of the legislators and I think this helped convince the members that this was a viable site," he said.

Reports reaching Detroit indicate that the area in Lansing Township is nothing but trees, a few swamps at a bend in the Grand River.

County moves to fight deficit budget woe

Committees of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners will have to come up with a way to finance any new programs they suggest from now on. The board decided Thursday to adopt a suggestion from Commissioner Tom F. Taylor (D-Westland) that will require the committee suggest a source of funding when ever they propose the county spending money.

Taylor's suggestion was approved earlier this month by the Ways and Means Committee, which consists of all 27 commissioners.

The new policy will require that the source of funding for a new program be found within the existing budget. In that way, if a new program is established, an existing one will have to be trimmed to free funds.

The new funding plan is part of several spending requirements adopted by the Board of Commissioners last week to minimize a projected $7 to $10 million budget deficit.

The deficit is attributed in a large part to the effects of the current economic slump by both the commissioners' fiscal advisor

Edward Bobowski and the County Board of Auditors. These effects include diminished revenues and anticipated non-receipt of funds previously expected from the state and the City of Detroit, both of which are confronted with their own budget crises.

Another measure taken last week to minimize spending was imposition of a moratorium on filling any jobs that become vacant. Only jobs "deemed absolutely essential" will be filled. One exception to the moratorium will be at Wayne County General Hospital because medical services were considered critical by the board. A county spokesman said although special permission to fill vacant jobs has been required for the last two years, the new edict has tightened criteria even more.

Although the Ways and Means Committee has proposed a special committee of board committee chairmen to hear requests for personnel, the Board of Commissioners decided against forming such a group, retaining its own power as the Ways and Means Committee to review job requests.

During holiday

Society asks caution

During a typical holiday weekend in Michigan more than 450 traffic deaths and 21,000 disabling injuries usually occur.

The Easter Seal Society (ESS) of Wayne County is warning motorists to drive cautiously during all summer weekends and to use seatbelts and harnesses every time they travel, but more so during the Labor Day weekend.

Research indicates that the use of seatbelts and shoulder harnesses is the single most effective step travellers can take in preventing accidents. Approximately 8,000 to 10,000 lives could be saved every year if motorists used safety belts all the time.

The Easter Seal Society cites studies reported by the National Safety Council which shows drinking is a major factor in at least one-half of all fatal accidents during holiday weekends.

The report also attributes three out of 10 fatal accidents to driving too fast or too fast for the conditions.

Besides obeying speed limits motorists should be prepared to reduce their speed for traffic, hazardous road conditions, bad weather and night driving. The ESS warns motorists that night driving should be at speeds which permit stopping within the visibility range of the car's headlights.

Before taking any long trips a quick check of the car just before starting out and periodic checks during the trip can help ensure greater security, the ESS added.

They advise motorists to check tires for inflation and road damage, lights, windshields, window, horn, mirrors for proper adjustment, steering, for any excessive play, brakes for at least 1-inch pedal clearance from floor, adequate gas and oil supply and emergency equipment, such as first aid kit, fire extinguisher and reflectors or flares.

During long trips fatigue and distraction are special points to consider. The ESS advises drivers to break up long trips with a brisk walk, a short nap or a cup of coffee.

The ESS encourages all motorists to follow all safety tips to ensure a safe enjoyable vacation.

Center

to offer

service

A man born and raised in the Belleville-Van Buren area has established a business he believes will help local residents.

George McAtee, born in Belleville 31 years ago, has opened A-Mart Vacuum Center at 537 E. Huron River Drive near the city's northern boundary.

Long involved in both vacuum repairs and sales, McAtee said he opened the business to give customers a local place to repair their vacuum cleaners.

"In the past, people had to travel to Ypsilanti, Wayne or Dearborn Heights for the service," McAtee said. "Now they have it in town."

McAtee, who was employed at a department store in vacuum repairs in Detroit prior to opening the shop, added that the establishment of the business is "a move back home."

He will sell new and rebuilt vacuum cleaners, carrying Eureka and Hoover, new models and virtually any type of rebuilt used model traded in on a new cleaner.

He also will offer pickup and delivery to residents. Information on the new business can be obtained by calling 697-1050.

'Grassroots' to stay involved in Romulus bonding plans

With the dust settled after the defeat of two $14.1 million bond issues proposed in Romulus, a spokesman for the group which opposed the issues clarified the group's intentions in future campaigns.

"Grassroots will stay involved in city issues, but will not take a stand in issues involving elections of politicians," said Richard Campbell, head of the information citizen's group. "I've been approached by workers from various campaigns for some form of endorsement, but have reiterated the stand each time."

The Grassroots organization leafletted the city on at least two occasions, and campaigned at the polls Aug. 12 against two bond issues for a recreation center and road paving in the city.

The two issues were defeated by nearly 3-1 margins.

Though the bond proposals were backed vigorously by incumbent Mayor Terry L. Troutt and representatives of the City Council and some administrative posts, Campbell said that his group's opposition was to the issues, and not the personalities who backed them.

Two of the candidates opposing Troutt in the upcoming mayoral primary, James C. Stewart, an incumbent councilman, and Clayton W. Meldrum, a former building official, also opposed the bond issues.

Campbell said that individual workers in Grassroots will be "free to do as they wish in the campaign," but added that he hopes to keep the group together.

"We'll be taking stands, not always negative ones, on issues as they effect the city," Campbell said. "I think it's important for the citizens to remain involved."

Prior to heading the group, Campbell was active in the PTA in Romulus schools, serving as president of one of the school PTA organizations.

FELLOW ROMULUS CITIZENS!

JAMES C. STEWART

Tax bills are definite and require a definite and prompt answer. There is nothing obscure about a tax bill except how it could possibly be so much.

The present administration has a track record of being l-o-o-s-e spenders, consequently squandering your hard earned tax dollar.

JUST THINK OF WHAT ROMULUS AND CITIZENS COULD OF HAD...

IF... the Troutt Team hadn't staffed City Hall with political supporters, known as cronyism. (Cronyism is putting unqualified people in high salaried city jobs.)

IF... so much money and time hadn't been spent on pushing "blank check" bond issues with fictional publications at the taxpayers expense. (Typical example of l-o-o-s-e spending was the recent Special Election only weeks before the upcoming primary election.)

REMEMBER when Terry Troutt at the bond hearing stated, "The cost of a Special Election is nothing to be concerned about." Taxpayers know it is something to be concerned about because they are the ones who pay the bill.

IF... Council Chairman McAnally, Council, and Mayor Troutt had taken advantage of State and Federal grants to develop vacant land for a new shopping center and-or super market.

IF... special tax assessments hadn't been diverted to the General Fund for other purposes than originally intended for. (This has lead the taxpayer to believe that the General Operating Cost is far less than what it really is.)

QUESTION: How long can the present council along with the Mayor's approval continue the unethical practice of collecting money for specified purposes and then transfer it to cover up deficits in other accounts?

IF... Engineering Costs — $191,859.00 hadn't gone UP $ 30,000.00
Attorney Fees — $64,717.00 hadn't gone UP $ 38,000.00
City Planners Fee — $42,512.00 hadn't gone UP $ 22,000.00

General Operating Cost — $4,534,909.00 hadn't gone UP $1,097,954.00
The people made a clear and resounding indication of their desires by their overwhelming NO VOTE in the recent Special Election.

A "NEEDED CHANGE" is definitely the answer to putting a stop to l-o-o-s-e spending.

To Michigan travellers

Ethnic contributions evident

Regardless of where a person travels in Michigan, unique ethnic contributions to cities and towns are evident.

The state's first ethnic group was the Indian. Chippewa, Ottawa and Potawatomi controlled the densely forested state before Europeans settled here in the 1700s.

Reservations, such as the one at Bay Mills near Sault Ste. Marie, are home for many of the descendants of those proud tribes. They and other Indians now celebrate their past and future through pow-wows open to the public at Jones and Peshabestown in the Leelanaw Peninsula and at Ludington.

Holland's Tulip Festival each spring feeds residents of that city recall Dr. A. C. Van Raalte, a Rotterdam pastor who in 1846 led 53 persons from the Netherlands to Detroit. Van Raalte then bought a 1,000-acre tract along Lake Michigan, naming it for his home country.

Across the state two years later, German immigrants settled along the Cass River, naming their town Frankenmuth, where today German still is taught in schools and visitors frequently hear it spoken by locals.

During the week-long Frankenmuth Bavarian Festival each June, residents and tourists dress in traditional Bavarian clothes, sing German songs and dance the polka.

Before the Civil War, freed and escaped black southern slaves came north, many to Michigan. Several families gathered south of Cassopolis in Southwest Michigan to form Calvin Center, called the nation's only farm community founded by former slaves. Its present residents, many of whom are related to the original settlers, are frequent subjects for social scholars from across the country.

Hamtramck, the Polish city, actually started as a German farm town. But in 1914, the Dodge brothers began auto production there and a new Ford plant opened in nearby Highland Park.

Thousands of Poles who found work at the plants moved from Detroit to Hamtramck. Today, more than half the city's population remains Polish. Many Polish families still cling to their heritage through language and old-country customs.

Another Detroit ethnic suburb is Oak Park, home for thousands of Jewish Michiganders and at least a dozen synagogues. The first synagogue was built in the 1950s when Northwest Detroit's Jewish population spilled into the Oakland County community.

While most of Detroit's once-prevalent Irish population has moved to the suburbs, many return to the "old sod" each year for the annual St. Patrick's Day Parade and a yearly ethnic festival. Both events help recall ancestors who escaped Ireland's mid-1800 potato famine and came to the Motor City seeking factory jobs.

Michigan held the promise of jobs and a new life for many other immigrants as well. Railroad agents recruited Swedes in their home country to work at lumber camps near Cadillac. Descendants of those lumbermen still live at that popular vacation city.

Finns came to Upper Peninsula towns like Houghton to mine copper and iron and lumber the forests in the late 1800s. They are credited with starting the state's first cooperative store when merchants refused them credit after a strike.

Joining Swedes in the mines were the Italians, who founded Iron Mountain after iron ore was discovered there in 1879. The English came to Ypsilanti to build mills along the Huron River while Chinese were lured to Jackson by railroad construction.

French traders settled the Muskegon area, and Scotch clans chose the rich farmlands of Michigan's Thumb near Bad Axe to build their lives. Some of those farms later brought Latino laborers to the Saginaw area, where many families stayed to become an integral part of that city's culture.

When Greek immigrants came to Michigan in 1890 a large number settled in Lansing, where the Greek Orthodox crosses of Holy Trinity Church watch over the city.

Along with other Europeans, Russians came to Port Huron from 1905 to 1915, seeking jobs in the town's foundries and other industries.

One of the latest groups to arrive in Michigan speaks Arabic. Palestinian Arabs and others looking for factory work in the 1950s settled in Dearborn, which now has the largest concentration of Arabic-speaking persons in the country.

Flint, however, was one of the first Michigan cities to attract residents from the Middle East. Lebanese settled there in the early 1900s, seeking work in auto factories.

Interested in learning more about the 20 ethnic groups in the state? Attend Detroit's ethnic festivals, or events at other towns. Either way, you'll learn about your neighbors' and even your own heritage.

Romulus will rebuild with nine vet players

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Plucking a quote from George Mans, the head football coach at Eastern Michigan University, Romulus High's sophomore grid strategist Tom Baldwin views the pending campaign with cautiously optimism.

"I feel about the same way Mans does," said Baldwin whose Eagles posted a disappointing 2-7 won-lost record in 1974. "He said 'there isn't anyone on our (EMU) schedule that we can't beat, but also there isn't anyone who can't beat us.'"

Baldwin pointed out that he had a nucleus of a winning team, "but we have a lot of work ahead of us."

In preparation for the season, the Eagle mentor took 40 potential varsity candidates to camp last week and, "the kids looked real good."

One of the bright spots is the return of seasoned senior quarterback Michael Morrison who lettered as a sophomore. The 18-year-old senior is an all-around athlete who knows his way around in the backfield.

"We're expecting quite a bit from Mike this season," Baldwin said. "He has the potential to do everything."

Morrison is one of nine returning lettermen. Two others — seniors Mike Ellis and Jim Parker — will help make up the backfield.

Ellis is a rugged 5-foot-9, 165-pound fullback who will double as a linebacker, while Parker is being groomed as a swingback after serving as a defensive halfback last year.

One of the mainstays of the line is All-Area candidate Ed Abbott, a senior who will go both ways as a tackle. The 6-foot-4, 228-pound griddier is considered a major college prospect.

Abbott was the Eagles' leading tackler last year and he has excellent speed to go along with his sturdy size.

Teaming with Abbott at the defensive tackle slot is 6-foot-11, 200-pound senior Jim Haislip. Haislip is a

Stokes leads Tigers

Sports

A new head football coach.
An excellent turnout.

And a "superb attitude" mark the pre-season trials and tribulations at Belleville High, one of the teams that will be out to shake the "second division" image it has earned in the tough Suburban 8 Conference.

The "new" head coach is Pat Stokes, who isn't actually new. He's served as assistant line coach for three years to Keith Emerson and has coached at Belleville for the past five years.

Emerson resigned last month after three futile years of trying to win the elusive conference championship.

Stokes, who played high school football at Belleville back in the early 40s, is optimistic about his new charges.

"The attitude so far on this team has just been superb," Stokes said. "We don't have any super stars or hot shot runningbacks. What we have is balance, and that I like."

Some 47 potential players showed up for the first week of practice and Stokes and his staff were pleased at what they saw.

"We have potential out there and what lies ahead is the challenge of turning that potential into winners," Stokes added.

Stokes has assembled an excellent staff which includes Phil Neupert as backfield coach; Ted Grignon, former Dearborn Edsel Ford All-Stater and Western Michigan University star as the backfield coach. Tom Fielder serves as the third assistant coach.

The task of making the Tigers a winner is compounded by the fact that most of the league will be stronger this year. Plymouth Salem, the undefeated conference champ which also won the mythical regional playoff, has a score of returning lettermen.

Edsel and Trenton, along with Allen Park, also will have strong teams this season.

Yet the Belleville coach is by no means pessimistic about his team's chances in 1975. Stokes has high hopes "that we will win our share of games."

Belleville will open the 1975 campaign against Wayne Memorial, a team that will be out to avenge last year's loss to the Tigers.

The opener will be played at Belleville at 8 p.m. Sept. 12.

You must always read your owner's manual carefully to find out proper towing procedure in any car, but especially in a car with an automatic transmission. Do not move the car until you are sure it is safe to do so. Towing a car any distance, with four wheels on the road, will frequently ruin an automatic transmission. Always lift the rear wheels off the road to avoid any trouble.

Check your owner's manual for the proper replacement parts you need for your foreign or domestic car. Stay right in your own backyard. Chances are, there are plenty of exciting things to do as a family that aren't that far away. Like visiting a national park. Go fishing. Or camping. Or taking a short trip to the nearest big city or point of interest. And remember. If you're a little short of money for your vacation, see HFC about a Traveloan. Shivaree jolts Shephards on camping trip

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

If you happened to be ensconced at Lulu Road Camp Grounds near Petersburg the night of Aug. 9, you were very much aware that around 2 a.m., the early morning air was suddenly rent with shouting, laughing, bells ringing and noisemakers clacking.

And if you were "in" on the hush-hush arrangement, you very well knew that you were participating in an old fashioned shivaree for a bride and groom of 39 years, Art and Verdys Shephard.

It all began when the couple's daughter, Diane Ferguson, put the bug in Sue Thompson's ear that the Shephards would be celebrating Art's birthday, his retirement and their wedding anniversary during the monthly summer camp-out of the "Wanderin' Squares", a local square dance group. Then Diane and her family (members of the club, themselves) went off on their own vacation throughout the state.

So with Sue and her husband, John, as instigators, the "Squares" put their heads together and came up with a whing ding of a celebration. Verdys, who is always surprising other people, said she can't believe that 26 Boy Scouts, their 11 leaders, a campground owner and all the other campers could have been alerted to what was planned without her knowing. But they knew, they kept quiet and they waited... and waited... and waited.

Art, who has always been one to retire early at bedtime (9-10-ish) seemed to have endless energy that particular night and it was at 2 a.m. that he and his wife finally found their way to their lodging. When they were sure Art wasn't going to make another appearance, the group got to work frantically, TP'ing the couple's camper and setting the stage for the big show.

With the whole camp in on the fun, it wasn't surprising that someone slightly jostled the Shephard's moorings and Verdys thought perhaps someone was making off with some of their trappings. Figuring she'd catch the culprit in the act, she threw open the door and, you're right!! SHE was caught, completely shocked, by shouts of surprise!

The couple was then taken back to the pavillion where a host of gag gifts awaited their opening. Among their newly prized possessions are the appointments for an anniversary dinner—paper plates and napkins, plastic forks and spoons and also a can of pork and beans; a magic money machine, a black bikini, and pills of every sort to name but a few. Plus there were goodies for Art's retirement days, a top, a yo-yo, deck of cards, dominoes, mouth organ, popcorn, etc.

What made the plans so successful was the fact that the "squares" HAD performed their usual ritual of observing Art's birthday and the anniversary with a decorated cake and "The Anniversary Waltz" at the Saturday night dance. So, who's to suspect anything more?

Art, who worked for the Van Buren Public School System for 22 years, said his farewells the latter part of July. He hopes now to catch up on all those things he's always wanted to do. The start will be a trip to visit relatives in Iowa in a few weeks.

Back from West Coast

The Watkins family—Jake, Marianne, Billy and Todd—are back in Romulus after a 2-weeks absence. Their vacation plans this year included a flight to Los Angeles, Calif. where they were met by Jake's mother and step-father, Molly and Fred Hubbard, who whisked them off to their home in nearby Corona.

The following evening the Romulus quartet was honored at a family dinner which included aunts, uncles and cousins from Anaheim, Palmdale and Riverside. Jake, a native Californian, also enjoyed having an old high school buddy, Jim Willis of Long Beach, join in the festivities. A few days later they were overnight guests of Jim and his wife, Nona, and spent a day with them and their son, Charlie, at Disneyland.

Other highlights of their trip included tours of the Hollywood-Beverly Hills region, the Queen Mary and NBC Studios; a day at Knott's Berry Farm where they saw the Lennon Sisters perform; another at Universal Studios and a drive to the Capistrano Mission.

They also managed to tuck in two days in Las Vegas where they were joined by friends from that city, Greg and Gina Roulander. Before returning home, the Watkinses were wine and dined by cousins, Earl and Nancy Parkhurst of Anaheim.

Kay Ivan honored

Some 55 relatives and friends recently answered in-itations to a bridal shower for August bride-elect, Kay Ivan. The party, tagged "miscellaneous", was held at the Royal Holiday Club House in Plymouth and was given by Kathy Patalocco.

For the Sunday afternoon festivities, guests drove from Howell, Wyandotte, Wayne, Westland, Livonia, Southgate and Belleville with the prospective bridegroom's sister, Cindy Peterson, traveling from Columbus, Ohio for the occasion.

Alma Johnson of Belleville took home the door prize which followed several games of card bingo. The blue and white color scheme of the wedding was used in the table appointments with a driftwood tree creation as the focal point for the gifts. Several gifts, tied to its branches, were handed to the honoree by her twin sister, Fay Ivan, who's to be maid of honor. Also assisting were another sister, Pat Smith of Belleville, and Cindy Peterson of Columbus.

Kay and her fiancé, Keith Patalocco, have reserved St. Anthony's Catholic Church for their summer wedding.

Westland church site of wedding

A reception at the Romulus home of the bride's parents followed the recent summer wedding of Michele Underwood and Pvt. William Gregory Roe, U.S. Army. The ceremony, at the Westland Free Methodist Church united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy T. Underwood of Romulus and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Roe of Glover Street, Wayne.

The Rev. John M. Baker conducted the nuptial rite before some 30 relatives and guests.

The bride for her wedding day chose a gown of lace and organza styled with a fitted bodice, rounded neckline and bishop sleeves. The full skirt drifted into a chapel train as she walked. A profile cap of lace held the bride's bouffant veil and a nosegay of assorted dried flowers completed her ensemble.

As her sister's maid of honor, Mounice Underwood wore a blue and pink A-line dress and matching picture hat. She, too, carried a bouquet of assorted dried flowers.

Also dressed in similar gowns were Marianne Underwood in red and white and Donna Roe in green. Picture hats complemented their frocks as did dried flower nosegays.

The bridegroom's younger brother, Michael Roe, was best man and ushers were Lyle McGregor and Ron Seiter.

The bridegroom currently is serving with the U.S. Army in Germany where he will be joined by his bride in October.

Library garden gets a 'face lift' thanks to Scouts

The patio gardens of the Fred C. Fisher Library in Belleville received a "face-lifting" when eight members of Girl Scout Troop 616 of Haggerty School stripped the weeds from the area which had become overrun with "unnecessary" foliage.

The troop's leader, Janet Oliver, had noticed the problem during a visit to the library and mentioned it to the girls and, voila!, the gardens are once again lovely.

Volunteer gardeners were Sharon Disney, Gena and Ann Oliver, Elizabeth Coles, Tammy Jones, Ann Kraife, Kim Black and Linda Johnson.

This was the girls' first community project for the year. Their other activities have included picnics at Van Buren Park, a tour of Mac Donald's in Ypsilanti, a hike to and from Lower Huron Metro Park where they picnicked, a fly-up ceremony for Brownies at the same park, a bake sale in the city of Belleville and a week-long stay at Camp Linden.

Belleville High School's cheerleading squads attended two different camps this summer with the junior varsity (JV), and wrestling teams taking part in activities at the U.S. Cheerleading Association's Camps All American (USCA) in Hartland, Mich. They were evaluated for the quality of their cheerleading abilities and received 183 points out of a possible 200. Award winners were Therese Bowles, Sheila Thurman, Rachel Wilson and Sheila Speights.

The other four varsity cheerleaders were at USCA's Camps All American for four days. In night competition they competed in the four-and-under team division and received a 5th place team trophy for being one of the top six teams out of the 28 attending their camp session.

Other honors received

Summer's been busy for senior citizens

Although the Romulus Senior Citizens have not been in the news for some time, it doesn't mean they haven't been busy. Their summer calendar has been loaded with activities and the autumn pages already are beginning to be filled. Their recent plans included trips to Kellogg's at Battle Creek and the Detroit Zoo as well as shopping and show trips. The group constructed and entered a float in the July 4 parade and met for a picnic afterwards. They also traveled to Aurora, Ohio for a visit to Sea World and held their annual club picnic at Lower Huron Metro Park in early August.

Some of the best is yet to come, though. For the 6-day trip to the Smoky Mountains in September, a full bus already is promised. On Sept. 17, the group will drive to Point Pelee in Ontario and come October will take a color tour via bus of the Pinc-kney Recreation Area.

During the month of August the club raffled off two bicycles and two afghans with Violette Klages winning the 3-wheeler and Mildred Spoor the 2-wheeler. The large afghan went to Marlene Spitzer and the small one to Cecelia Renke.

Those interested in joining the senior citizens are welcome to attend their weekly meetings held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each Tuesday at the VFW Hall on Huron River Drive.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

Member By Invitation NSM National Selected Morticians

HAROLD REDISKE, HAROLD REDISKE, JR.—DIRECTORS

Emperors, Kings, Presidents and decision making men throughout history have had consultants; people advising them what and what not to do. In spite of good education, imagination and genius of man, no one man can possibly have all the answers for all questions or problems. It clearly shows the insufficiencies of man. Only God knows WHY there is a beginning, WHAT happens after the beginning, and knows HOW the end is or will be in EVERY public, private, national or international matter. Man does not know. Never has known. Never will know the WHY, WHAT and HOW in ALL things. In some things, yes, But not in all.

Why then do men sometimes resent or disapprove his decisions? In resentment or disapproval, does not man imply that if he were God, things would have been done differently? Is man not also implying that he prefers God to do things the way he wants them done, that he wants God to share his views? In such cases, will man ever learn that God needs no adviser?

Michigan in September: A harvest of things to do

Although Western Wayne County residents really might not realize it, September is just around the corner. And September in Michigan is a time when evenings are a bit balmy, vacation spots are less crowded and there's a harvest of things to do just for the fun of it.

It has become a tradition with a "goodly number" of Michiganders (and non-Michiganders as well) to "walk" into September across the Mackinac Bridge from St. Ignace to Mackinaw City. The Labor Day bridge walk not only is one of the state's major events, but also the only day of the year that pedestrian traffic is allowed on the 5-mile span that connects Michigan's two peninsulas. The first Labor Day walk was held in 1959 and has increased phenomenally in popularity and participation every year since.

Since its origination in 1970, Detroit's Ethnic Festival Program also has climbed to a high place on the popularity list of enjoyable things to do on summer weekends in Michigan. This month's offerings of other cultures, customs, and charms are the Mexican Festival on Sept. 5-7, the Arab World Festival on Sept. 12-14, and the Latin American Festival on Sept. 19-21 which will close the 1975 season.

Fairgoers have several opportunities to follow their favorite pursuit north, east, south and west. September's schedule begins with the Saline Community Fair in Saline on Sept. 2-6 and after that the Allegan County Fair, Allegan, Sept. 5-13; Saginaw Fair, Saginaw, Sept. 6-13; St. Joseph County Fair, Centerville, Sept. 15-20; Hillsdale County Agricultural Fair, Hillsdale, Sept. 21-27; and the Marquette County Harvest Festival, Marquette, Sept. 24-27.

Horse power of the buckin' bronco variety along with a frontier saloon, arts and crafts and a big parade are all ingredients that will be mixed together for good times during Frontier Days and Rodeo at Charlotte, Sept. 4-7.

Vintage horse power of the motorized type will be the attraction of the 25th annual Old Car Festival, Sept. 6-7 at Greenfield Village, Dearborn. Some 300 pre-1925 autos are expected including electric, steamers and gas buggies. Along with the cars and their costumed drivers, more than 50 high-wheel bike riders will demonstrate some of the skills it required to manipulate the early day 2-wheelers. And, right before your very eyes, a pile of Model T parts will be assembled into a running machine in a matter of minutes.

More of yesterday's way of life will be recalled Sept. 13-14 at the Folk Life Festival at Charlton Park near Hastings. Early American arts and crafts, sausage, soap and 'Likker makin', blacksmithing and music too are just a small sampling of the pioneer spirit that will be brought back to life during this charming festival.

Sailing enthusiasts are sure to be interested in the first Canada Cup Race scheduled for Sept. 10-13 between Sarina and Port Huron. This is the fresh water equivalent to the America's Cup race.

On the festival front, September has several tasty offerings. The Harvest Festival at Scottville, Sept. 11-13, will feature a free ox roast plus two parades, carnival, farm displays and Michigan Salmon fishing.

You might say that the Michigan Honey Festival, Sept. 11-14 at Chesaning, gives credit where credit is due. It's a fact that bees are extremely important in pollinating Michigan fruits, melons, cucumbers and other crops resulting in high quality and production. Of course the high quality honey produced by the bees is also significant. As a matter of fact, Michigan ranks 13th among the 50 states in honey production. The Honey Festival will feature a grand parade, carnival, interesting and informative displays about the business of bees and honey.

Michigan wine is fine and getting better all the time. You can prove it to yourself Sept. 18-21 during the 8th annual Grape and Wine Festival at Paw Paw. The festival honors the ripening of the grapes and offers the visitor a wide variety of attractions not the least of which is the opportunity to sample the fermented nectar. One of the favorite features of the festival is the grape stomping contest and everyone is welcome to "have a foot in it". Other "goings on" will include a magic show, turtle derby, art show, dance and grand parade.

Apples are the star Sept. 19-21 at the Apple Festival in Freeland. And in case you were not aware, Michigan ranks first in the nation in the production of Spies, Johnnathans and Wealthy apples. An antique car parade, art show, beer tent, golf tournament and apple orchard tours are just a few of the scheduled events during the Apple Festival.

On the art front: an Arts-Crafts Festival at Powers Park, Portland, Sept. 5-6; Art Show in Civic Art Center, Battle Creek, Sept. 7-30; Hobby, Arts and Craft Show, East 8 Mile Armory, Detroit, Sept. 12-14;

Lafayette Park Art Fair, Lafayette Shopping Plaza, Detroit, Sept. 13-14; and the Arts and Crafts Festival, Fallasburg Park, Lowell, Sept. 26-28.

Some dates for rock hounders to check are: the Rock and Mineral Swap, Pioneer Park, Muskegon, Sept. 13-14; Tulip City Gem and Mineral Show, Civic Center, Holland, Sept. 19-20; and the Gem and Mineral Show, Sept. 20-21 in the American Legion Hall, St. Louis.

State sets school meal guides

The State of Michigan has established guidelines of family size and income criteria for those school districts taking part federally funded reimbursed child nutrition programs in Wayne County. The Free and Reduced Price Meals and Free Milk programs are available for children from families unable to pay the full price of meals and milk. The project is part of the National School Lunch, School Breakfast, Special Milk and U.S.D.A. Donated Food programs.

For a family of four with an income of less than $6,260, the school-aged youngsters are eligible for the free meals and milk. However, if that family's income is between $6,261 and $8,770, the youngsters are eligible for the reduced-price meals.

In addition to the income figures and family size, the program also is available to those families who have unusual expenses, such as usually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of the income, special education expense due to the mental or physical condition of the child and disaster or casualty losses.

Applications forms will be sent to all homes, and additional copies are available at the child's respective principal's office. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only to determine a family's eligibility.

Applications also can be submitted at any time during the year. Under the provisions of the program, an official at each participating school has been designated to review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the official's ruling, he or she may make a request, either orally or in writing, to the school or the district's hearing official to appeal the decision.

State fund may cut insurance

The high cost of school fire and hazard insurance may be lessened, if local boards choose to participate in a state fire insurance fund created for public schools.

Legislation, introduced in the Senate by Sen. William Faust (D-Westland), would create a 7-member board, appointed by the governor with consent of the Senate, to administer insurance funds to schools who choose to buy from the state instead of commercial insurance companies.

"Schools would be able to participate in the fund 'by deducting their insurance payments from their state aid allotment at a rate of $1 per membership child," Faust said.

At present, public schools must purchase fire insurance from commercial companies, and adjust their local budgets to accommodate the cost.

"The current method for buying insurance has been adequate until recently, but, the economic pinch on insurance funds has drastically limited the amount of insurance a school can get," he said.

Additionally, Faust said insurance companies that write fire policies for schools include deductibles as high as $25,000 to $50,000.

"As a result, when loss occurs, even those schools who can get insurance suffer an economic disaster due to high deductibles," Faust added.

Under the proposal, school policies administered by the state include a low $1,000 deductible.

The Faust bill would permit participating schools to claim 40 percent of the damage award immediately when a hazard occurs, and the remaining 60 percent would have to be paid to the school no later than 120 days after repair or replacement in complete.

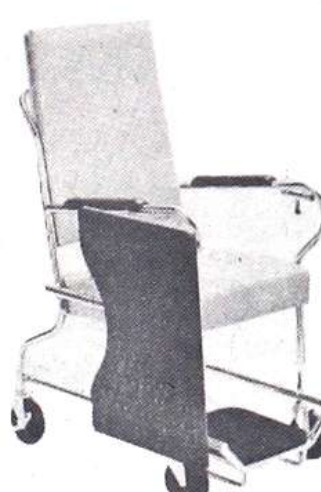

"It is the state's job to see that public education is continuous," Faust said. "When that continuous operation is threatened the state should offer alternatives to the local boards so they can keep school doors open."

"My bill offers a good alternative to the ever growing problem of funding fire insurance for public schools."

Labor Day weekend to be heavy travel time

The boom in state travel that is pushing Michigan tourism to its greatest year ever should continue over the Labor Day weekend, according to Automobile Club of Michigan (AAA). "Tourism in the state this holiday should be up 5 to 10 percent over the 1974 Labor Day weekend, which would make it the third straight record holiday this year," said AAA Touring Manager Joseph Ratke. "Data compiled by AAA Holiday News Service and the Michigan Travel Commission showed this year's Memorial Day and Fourth of July weekends both were records for those holidays," he added. "Memorial Day tourism exceeded the 1974 holiday by 10 percent, and there was a 5 percent increase for the July 4th holiday. "People have decided that recreation and leisure time are as important to their well-being as any food or vitamins they can take and that is why they are continuing to travel despite the economic climate." More tourists have visited the State Capitol this year than ever before; Mackinac Bridge crossings are at an all-time high, and resort areas such as Holland, Mackinac Island and Traverse City report increased business over last year — some by as much as 20 percent. "The state's tourist industry — the second largest industry in Michigan — is booming this year," Ratke said. "And business is up 12 to 20 percent over last year when the nation still was reeling from the shock of the gasoline shortage scare." Apparently still anxious about the energy crisis, Michigan motorists traveled 4 percent fewer miles over the 1974 Labor Day weekend than they did in the same 78-hour holiday period of 1973.

This year, however, Ratke is predicting Michigan motorists will cover 643 million miles this Labor Day weekend, an increase of 2.5 percent over last year. State parks are expected to get heavy use, but most of the private campgrounds in Michigan should be able to accommodate holiday weekend campers in the general area of their intended destinations.

Auto Club expects peak traffic periods to be between 7 and 10 p.m. on Friday, when the bulk of motorists head out for their holiday, and between 2 and 10 p.m. Monday, during the rush for home. All construction work on state roads and bridges will be halted from 3 p.m. Friday until Tuesday morning, but some traffic slowdowns could develop around construction sites. Motorists may encounter problems near the four I-75 freeway overpass construction sites between Bay City and Bridgeport, where three lanes narrow to two, and on I-75 over the Rouge River Bridge in Wayne County, where southbound traffic is diverted to two of four northbound lanes. Ratke urged that motorists exercise extreme caution during the Labor Day holiday which runs from 6 p.m. Friday to 12 a.m. Monday. Last Labor Day weekend, 25 persons were killed on state roads, compared to 28 the year before.

Libraries offer degree plan

Wayne State University (WSU) has teamed up with 17 local libraries, including the facility in Romulus, to bring Western Wayne County adults a 4-year college degree program. Students will meet with a university instructor in workshops of 15 to 20 persons held once a week in the library, watch television courses at home each day, and attend a weekend conference on Wayne's campus twice each quarter, the basic format of the University Studies and Weekend College program, now completing its second full year of operation and serving more than 2,300 fulltime adult students. The college degree program is divided into four years of study. Students take one year of the social sciences or urban studies, a year of urban humanities, and a year of science and technology. Upon completion of these years of study, students take an advanced studies year in which they pursue their specialization and synthesize the learning of the first three years. After accumulating 180 academic credit hours, which can be accomplished in four or five years, students are awarded a bachelor of general studies degree.

Television courses, an integral part of the educational design, are produced by WSU and are aired each day on channels 2, 4, 7 and 56 in the early morning hours, early evenings and repeated on weekends. Each TV course is shown in half-hour segments daily throughout an 11-week quarter. The course of study is fully approved for veterans. Many business and government organizations underwrite tuition costs for their employees through educational assistance programs.

Registration for the program, set to begin Sept. 22, will be from 7 to 9 p.m. tomorrow and Sept. 4.

Taylor is site of unit

Wayne County Commissioner James DeSana of Wyandotte, the chairman of the County Board of Health, said a new health center has opened in Taylor to provide convenient service for downriver residents. DeSana and two other county commissioners representing downriver districts, Edgar Harris and William G. Suzore, called the center "a vital service that gives a new dimension of medical care to the downriver community." Harris, of Taylor, also serves on the 5-member health board, and Suzore of Lincoln Park, represents the district in which the center is located. The address of the center is 21201 Eureka, between I-75 and Southland Mall, in the Pier I Shopping Center. Daily office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. More information can be obtained by calling 287-2400. The health center provides "a full and comprehensive range of both environmental and family health services," DeSana said. Included in the environmental health services are inspections or licensing for restaurants and grocery stores, swimming pools, mobile home parks, landfill and transfer stations, septic tanks, well, child care facilities, and rodent controls. Among the family health services available are Medicaid provisions, that include immunizations, physical examinations, health history and developmental tests,
